

MAGRÈ Chardonnay

Mature notes of banana, pineapple and tropical fruit tease the nose. The sandy limestone soils, in which its vines spread their roots, give it a pleasantly fresh, ripe fruit and remarkable structure, as well as the salty and fresh aftertaste of our Selection-Chardonnay. A wonderful wine offering exquisite pleasure whether drunk alone or as a companion to almost all starters and grilled fish.

The historical winegrowing village of Margreid features ideal conditions for a wide range of wines: In addition to the warm climate, the limestone gravel soils contain a high amount of humus which allows a variety of grape-types to achieve their finest characteristics, especially Chardonnay and Merlot.
